Overview

Cantella & Co., Inc. ("Cantella") is an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") to engage in investment advisory services. This Code of Ethics (the "Code") has been adopted by Cantella and is designed to comply with Rule 204A-1 (the "Rule") under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act").

This Code establishes rules of conduct for all employees of Cantella and is designed to, among other things; govern personal securities trading activities in the accounts of employees. The Code is based upon the principle that Cantella and its employees owe a fiduciary duty to Cantella's advisory clients to conduct their affairs, including their personal securities transactions, in such a manner as to avoid (i) serving their own personal interests ahead of clients, (ii) taking inappropriate advantage of their position with the firm and (iii) any actual or potential conflicts of interest or any abuse of their position of trust and responsibility.

The Code is designed to ensure that the high ethical standards long maintained by Cantella continue to be applied. The purpose of the Code is to preclude activities which may lead to or give the appearance of conflicts of interest, insider trading and other forms of prohibited or unethical business conduct. Pursuant to Section 206 of the Advisers Act, both Cantella and its employees are prohibited from engaging in fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative conduct. Compliance with this section involves more than acting with honesty and good faith alone. It means that Cantella has an affirmative duty of utmost good faith to act solely in the best interest of its clients.

Furthermore, the provisions of the Code are not all-inclusive. Rather, they are intended as a guide for employees of Cantella in their conduct. In those situations where an employee may be uncertain as to the intent or purpose of the Code, he/she is advised to consult with the CCO. The CCO may grant exceptions to certain provisions contained in the Code only in those situations when it is clear that the interests of our clients will not be adversely affected or compromised. Questions arising in connection with personal securities trading should be resolved in favor of the client even at the expense of the interests of employees.

The CCO will periodically report to senior management and/or the Cantella Board of Directors to document compliance with this Code.

Standards of Business Conduct

Cantella places the highest priority on maintaining its reputation for integrity and professionalism. The confidence and trust placed in our firm and its employees by our clients is something we value and endeavor to protect. The following standards of business conduct set forth policies and procedures to achieve these goals.

Cantella and its employees are subject to the following specific fiduciary obligations when dealing with clients:

- The duty to have a reasonable, independent basis for the investment advice provided;
- The duty to obtain best execution for a client's transactions as is possible, given the relevant clearing arrangement;

- The duty to ensure that investment advice is suitable to meeting the client's individual objectives, needs and circumstances; and
- A duty to be loyal to clients.

In meeting its fiduciary responsibilities to its clients, Cantella expects every employee to demonstrate the highest standards of ethical conduct for continued employment with Cantella. Compliance with the provisions of the Code shall be considered a basic condition of employment with Cantella. Employees are urged to seek the advice of the Cantella Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO") for any questions about the Code or the application of the Code to their individual circumstances. Employees should also understand that a material breach of the provisions of the Code may constitute grounds for disciplinary action, including termination of employment with Cantella.

Section 204A of the Advisers Act requires the establishment and enforcement of policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent the misuse of material, nonpublic information by investment advisers. Such policies and procedures are contained in this Code. The Code also contains policies and procedures with respect to personal securities transactions of all Cantella's access persons as defined herein. These procedures cover transactions in a reportable security in which an access person has a beneficial interest in or accounts over which the access person exercises control as well as transactions by members of the access person's immediate family.

Compliance with Securities Laws

This Code requires Cantella employees to abide by all applicable federal securities laws, including but not limited to the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended; the Securities Act of 1933, as amended; the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. As such, employees are not permitted, in connection with the purchase or sale, directly or indirectly, of a security held or to be acquired by a client to:

- Defraud a client in any manner
- Mislead a client, including by making any statement that omits material facts
- Engage in any act, practice or course of conduct that operates or would operate as a fraud or deceit on a client
- Engage in any manipulative practice with respect to a client
- Engage in any manipulative practice with respect to securities, including price manipulation
- Favor the interests of one client over another client
- Engage in front running, and/or profit personally, directly or indirectly, as a result of knowledge about a security or a transaction
- Solicit donations for a charitable or religious organization when they are the rep of record for that organization's account

Prohibition Against Insider Trading

Introduction

Trading securities while in possession of material, nonpublic information, or improperly communicating that information to others may expose supervised persons and Cantella to stringent penalties. Criminal sanctions may include a fine of up to $1,000,000 and/or ten years imprisonment. The SEC can recover the profits gained or losses avoided through the illegal trading, impose a penalty of up to three times the illicit windfall, and/or issue an order permanently barring you from the securities industry.

The rules contained in this Code apply to securities trading and information handling by supervised persons of Cantella and their immediate family members. An individual legitimately may be uncertain about the application of the rules contained in this Code in a particular circumstance. You must notify the CCO immediately if you have any reason to believe that a violation of this Code has occurred, or is about to occur.

Insider Trading Policy

No supervised person may trade, either personally or on behalf of others (such as investment funds and private accounts managed by Cantella), while in the possession of material, nonpublic information, nor may any personnel of Cantella communicate material, nonpublic information to others in violation of the law.

1. What is Material Information?

Information is material where there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable investor would consider it important in making his or her investment decisions. Generally, this includes any information the disclosure of which will have a substantial effect on the price of a company's securities. No simple test exists to determine when information is material; assessments of materiality involve a highly fact-specific inquiry. For this reason, you should direct any questions about whether information is material to the Cantella CCO.

Material information often relates to a company's results and operations, including, for example, dividend changes, earnings results, changes in previously released earnings estimates, significant merger or acquisition proposals or agreements, major litigation, liquidation problems, and extraordinary management developments.

Material information also may relate to the market for a company's securities. Information about a significant order to purchase or sell securities may, in some contexts, be material.

Prepublication information regarding reports in the financial press also may be material. You should also be aware of the SEC's position that the term "material nonpublic information" relates not only to issuers but also to Cantella's securities recommendations and client securities holdings and transactions.

2. What is Nonpublic Information?

Information is “public” when it has been disseminated broadly to investors in the marketplace. For example, information is public after it has become available to the general public through the Internet; a public filing with the SEC or some other government agency, the Dow Jones “tape” or The Wall Street Journal or some other publication of general circulation, and after sufficient time has passed so that the information has been disseminated widely.

3. Identifying Inside Information

Before executing any trade for yourself or others, including investment funds or private accounts managed by Cantella, you must determine whether you have access to material, nonpublic information. If you think that you might have access to material, nonpublic information, you should take the following steps:

- Report the information and proposed trade immediately to the CCO.
- Do not purchase or sell the securities on behalf of yourself or others, including investment funds or private accounts managed by the firm.
- Do not communicate the information inside or outside the firm, other than to the CCO.
- After the CCO has reviewed the issue, the firm will determine whether the information is material and nonpublic and, if so, what action the firm will take.

You should consult with the CCO before taking any action. This high degree of caution will protect you, our clients, and the firm.

4. Contacts with Public Companies

Contacts with public companies may represent an important part of our research efforts. The firm may make investment decisions on the basis of conclusions formed through such contacts and analysis of publicly available information. Difficult legal issues arise, however, when, in the course of these contacts, a supervised person of Cantella or other person subject to this Code becomes aware of material, nonpublic information. This could happen, for example, if a company’s Chief Financial Officer prematurely discloses quarterly results to an analyst, or an investor relations representative makes selective disclosure of adverse news to a handful of investors. In such situations, Cantella must make a judgment as to its further conduct.

5. Tender Offers

Tender offers represent a particular concern in the law of insider trading for two reasons: First, tender offer activity often produces extraordinary gyrations in the price of the target company’s securities. Trading during this time period is more likely to attract regulatory attention (and produces a disproportionate percentage of insider trading cases). Second, the SEC has adopted a rule which expressly forbids trading and “tipping” while in the possession of material, nonpublic information regarding a tender offer received from the tender offer or, the target company or anyone acting on behalf of either. Supervised persons of Cantella should exercise extreme caution any time they become aware of nonpublic information relating to a tender offer.

6. Restricted List & Watch List

Although Cantella does not typically receive confidential information from portfolio companies, it may, if it receives such information take appropriate procedures to establish restricted or watch lists in certain securities. The CCO may place certain securities on a "Restricted List." Access persons are prohibited from personally, or on behalf of an advisory account, purchasing or selling securities during any period they are listed. Securities issued by companies about which a number of supervised persons are expected to regularly have material, nonpublic information should generally be placed on the restricted list. The CCO shall take steps to immediately inform all supervised persons of the securities listed on the restricted list.

In addition, the CCO may place certain securities on a "Watch List." Securities issued by companies about which a limited number of supervised persons possess material, nonpublic information should generally be placed on the watch list. The list will be disclosed only to the CCO and a limited number of other persons who are deemed necessary recipients of the list because of their roles at Cantella.

Protecting the Confidentiality of Client Information

Confidential Client Information

In the course of investment advisory activities of Cantella, the firm gains access to non-public information about its clients. Such information may include a person's status as a client, personal financial and account information, the allocation of assets in a client portfolio, the composition of investments in any client portfolio, information relating to services performed for or transactions entered into on behalf of clients, advice provided by Cantella to clients, and data or analyses derived from such non-public personal information (collectively referred to as 'Confidential Client Information'). An access person is permitted to disclose Confidential Client Information only to such other access persons who need to have access to such information to deliver the Cantella's services to the client.

Access persons are also prohibited from making unauthorized copies of any documents or files containing Confidential Client Information that is otherwise inconsistent with the firm's Privacy Policy. destroyed.

Any supervised person who violates the non-disclosure policy described above will be subject to disciplinary action, including possible termination, whether or not he or she benefited from the disclosed information.

Security of Confidential Personal Information

Cantella enforces the following policies and procedures to protect the security of Confidential Client Information:

- The firm restricts access to Confidential Client Information to those access persons who need to know such information to provide Cantella's services to clients;
- Any access person who is authorized to have access to Confidential Client Information in connection with the performance of such person's duties and responsibilities is required to keep such information in a secure compartment, file or receptacle on a daily basis as of the close of each business day;
- All electronic or computer files containing any Confidential Client Information shall be encrypted and include anti-virus software and to protect from access by unauthorized persons;
- Any conversations involving Confidential Client Information, if appropriate at all, must be conducted by access persons in private, and care must be taken to avoid any unauthorized persons overhearing or intercepting such conversations.

Privacy Policy

As a registered investment adviser, Cantella and all supervised persons, must comply with SEC Regulation S-P, which requires investment advisers to adopt policies and procedures to protect the 'nonpublic personal information' of natural person clients. 'Nonpublic information,' under Regulation S-P, includes personally identifiable financial information ("PII") and any list, description, or grouping that is derived from PII. Personally identifiable financial information is defined to include information supplied by individual clients, information resulting from transactions, any information obtained in providing products or services. Pursuant to Regulation S-P Cantella has adopted policies and procedures to safeguard the information of natural person clients.

Enforcement and Review of Confidentiality and Privacy Policies

Any exception to this policy requires the written approval of the CCO.

Pre-Clearance Required for Private or Limited Offerings

General Policy

Cantella's policy with respect to gifts and entertainment is as follows:

- Giving, receiving or soliciting gifts in a business may give rise to an appearance of impropriety or may raise a potential conflict of interest;
- Access persons should not accept or provide any gifts or favors that might influence the decisions you or the recipient must make in business transactions involving Cantella, or that others might reasonably believe would influence those decisions;
- Modest gifts and favors, which would not be regarded by others as improper, may be accepted or given on an occasional basis. Entertainment that satisfies these requirements and conforms to generally accepted business practices also is permissible;

- This gift reporting requirement is for the purpose of helping Cantella monitor the activities of its employees. The compliance principal may also initiate inquiries of access persons regarding personal securities trading. Access persons are required to cooperate with such inquiries and any monitoring or review procedures employed by Cantella. Any transactions for any accounts of the compliance principal will be reviewed and approved by the CCO or other designated supervisory person. The compliance principal shall at least annually identify all access persons who are required to file reports pursuant to the Code and will inform such access persons of their reporting obligations.

Certification

Initial Certification

All supervised persons will be provided with a copy of the Code and must initially certify in writing that they have: (i) received a copy of the Code; (ii) read and understand all provisions of the Code; (iii) agreed to abide by the Code; and (iv) reported all account holdings as required by the Code.

All supervised persons shall promptly report to the CCO or an alternate designee all apparent violations of the Code. Any retaliation for the reporting of a violation under this Code will constitute a violation of the Code.

The CCO shall promptly report to senior management all apparent material violations of the Code. When the CCO finds that a violation otherwise reportable to senior management could not be reasonably found to have resulted in a fraud, deceit, or a manipulative practice in violation of Section 206 of the Advisers Act, he or she may, in his or her discretion, submit a written memorandum of such finding and the reasons therefore to a reporting file created for this purpose in lieu of reporting the matter to senior management.

Senior management shall consider reports made to it hereunder and shall determine whether or not the Code has been violated and what sanctions, if any, should be imposed. Possible sanctions may include reprimands, monetary fine or assessment, or suspension or termination of the employee's employment with the firm.
